- print design
- promotional printwork
- handicraft classes

Private Limited Company Saarakiri was established in 2002. We are located in Central Estonia, in Türi, which is called the Spring Capital of Estonia. The publishing house presently employs three people full time. Besides, we cooperate with creative people like photographers and artists in various projects.

Our activities are divided in three. First, we publish handicraft coursebooks for Estonian schools. Up to now we have issued „Knitting“, „Sewing“, „Crochetting“ and „Embroidery. A look in Folk Costumes“.

In addition to coursebooks we publish material on handicraft, cooking and folk art, also deliver arts and crafts classes.

Secondly, we produce various promotional printwork. We mostly have small enterprises in mind, when we offer full image design and company style: logos, business cards, promotional leaflets, posters. We also make postcards and brochures. Anneli, the designer at PLC Saarakiri is also the author of the logo of the FEM project.

Our environmentally friendly printwork uses recycled paper and paints, based on natural oils and resins.

Thirdly, we offer our clients unique souvenirs, which include handmade postcards, invitations etc. Depending on client's wishes and our ideas. We value old things and fresh ideas.
